Work Life History

I have been running a business continuously for 50 years. I quit graduate school in 1975 to become a professional advertising photographer. In the late 1980s, I transitioned my business into film directing and production, specializing in advertising. Throughout this phase of my career, I received most major national and international advertising awards for both print and film.

In the early 2000s, I expanded my focus to include brand consulting and a digital marketing agency. My company's client roster included businesses in the Pharmaceutical, Banking, News and Information, Medical, Energy, and Outdoor Recreation industries. Over the last 10 years, I have specialized in the energy industry, concentrating on managing restart efforts for demand response and energy infrastructure companies.

I am currently retired from marketing. I'm taking a gap year to work on launching my third act.

Public Service Highlights

1980s

- Served as President of the Florida Chapter of the American Society of Media Photographers.
- Became a National Board member of the American Society of Media Photographers.
- Partnered with various trade groups to advocate for changes to copyright law, leading to the Copyright Term Extension Act of 1992.

1990s

- Founding Member of The Creative Club of Tampa Bay, where I served as Business Practice Ethics Director.

- Founder and creator of "The Cuban Sandwich Show." This event was held annually for over 20 years.

2000s
